

Hyperplane arrangements in real projective spaces

Masaaki Yoshida (Kyushu University)

Abstract There is only one arrangement of $n + 3$ hyperplanes in general position in n -dimensional projective space up to continuous move. For example, five lines in the plane cuts out a pentagon, five triangles and five rectangles. We study six planes in the space, seven hyperplanes in 4-space, and so on.